Germany Completes Plans For Sudetenland Territory To Be Occupied

NAZIS TO GET MORE WEALTHY TRADE PLANTS

Area Includes Famous Glass Works, Rich Lignite Basin

By LOUIS F. LOCHNER
Copyright, 1938, by Associated Press
BERLIN, Oct. 6.—The international commission devoted to the Sudetenland arrived at an agreement on additional territorial demands to be occupied by Germany within the four existing terms by Monday, Oct. 10.

The new delimitations were approved as Germany's "final offer" to the Czechoslovakian government for reparations, "disting" back to the birth of the republic. Observers estimated the demand a powerful lever to force Czechoslovakia into Germany's economic area.

5,000 SQUARE MILES
Official sources did not indicate the total area involved in the new plan, but measurements on the map indicated it was about 5,000 square miles, or approximately one-third the whole Sudeten area of 20,000 square miles claimed by Germany.

The south of the German border will be pushed forward to an average depth of an average of about 20 miles.

At one point—Leitmeritz—the border will be pushed forward to an average depth of an average of about 20 miles.

The territory thus added to Germany without formal treaty of a plebiscite, includes the world-famous glass industry, the lignite basin of 23,000 population, and Czechoslovakia's principal textile center, Reichenberg, a city of 30,000 population.

Wayward the new zone embraces the important lignite basin of Danzig and Bruns, and the bus producing district of Sax upon which the heavy industry at Pilsen depends.

CLAIM POTTERY WORKS
In the south two of the principal centers given to Germany are Znojmo, founded in 1228, and famed for its pottery and wine, and Nalitz, where the peace was signed ending the Austro-Prussian war of 1866.

The new territory in zone five was the so-called "Kuhlenland" (Kuhlen-Cow-Land), bordering the southeastern corner of Silesia and including the lignite basin of Huttich, Troppa and Huttich.

The Schoenberg district, including the towns of Maderbach, Traubach and Zwickau.

The western side of the zone includes with the towns of Znojmo, Gallitz, Reichenberg, Barchitz, Leitmeritz and Gera.

RICH COAL BASIN
The Brenau district, the southern part of the zone, includes with the towns of Znojmo, Gallitz, Reichenberg, Barchitz, Leitmeritz and Gera.

WANT REPARATIONS
The zone was determined after the commission had agreed to the German version and accepted the Czech version, but the commission's decision was beyond the four terms agreed upon for immediate occupation by the Munich accord.

The commission further agreed a 51 per cent German population would be enough to declare any zone, village, town, or district.

The commission's motive was to narrow down as far as possible the districts where plebiscites must be held.

Germany's "reparations" claims were represented as based on "injuries" inflicted by the Czechs on the Sudeten since 1918.

The spokesman for the German delegation in the international commission said settlement commission and they would be "most reasonable."

WOMAN DENIES SHE SET FIRE TO HER HOME
TORONTO, Oct. 6.—Mrs. Mary Kenna, unsuccessful divorcee, whose home was destroyed by fire Tuesday night, asserted she had not set the fire.

She denied any knowledge of the fire, the fourth of its kind in the city in the last five years.

The woman, who lives at 1212 St. George's street, was interviewed by a reporter.

She said she had no idea of the fire, and that she had no knowledge of the fire.

TEN SUDETENS REPORTED KILLED FROM AMBUSH

At least 10 Sudeten Germans were killed Wednesday by shots fired from the Czech frontier.

Krumau has about three miles into the fortified Czechoslovak frontier. The Czechs have been firing at the Germans since they entered the town.

Reports received here said Czechoslovak soldiers and authorities who left the place Tuesday, suddenly returned and ordered removal of Nazi weapons and valuables.

The newly village of Weichsel, situated in the line of fire, was attacked by working parties of the Czechs.

Lion Flees Circus Cage, Kills Man Before Slain

WILLOWOOD, N.J., Oct. 6.—An escaped circus lion clawed to death a man who tried to bait it and had the south Jersey tourist in a grip terror for 15 minutes.

The lion escaped from its cage, and scratched the owner, Thomas Doherty. He forced it back into the cage before it had done more than a few feet. Came out of the cage and was a lion.

Doherty and his wife had been here all summer running the "wall of deer" a bowl with the most perpendicular axis in which the lion could be seen.

Mr. Doherty still expects when the lion is slain, he will be a lion. He was a lion, he was a lion, he was a lion.

BRITAIN GIVES PROPOSALS FOR ITALY ACCORD

Would Make Effective Immediately Settlement Of Differences

ROME, Oct. 6.—Diplomatic sources said today that Britain had submitted proposals for an accord with Italy in the fourth successive daily call of the Earl of Perth, British ambassador, to Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano.

Details of the plan to make effective immediately a settlement of Anglo-Italian differences were not disclosed.

PLAN BEFORE COUNCIL
The plan was expected to be put before the British parliament by the British prime minister when it meets next week.

Some political circles thought the plan might meet several days of the announcement of the decision of an Anglo-Italian agreement.

RUMORS CIRCULATED
Rumors have circulated that Italy was preparing to withdraw from the armistice of the Franco-Italian agreement.

Recognition of Italy's Ethiopian conquest in 1941, the project of French recognition, was expected in diplomatic circles to be part of the plan.

Committee Meets
An announcement was issued today by the Italian government that a committee of experts had been appointed to study the Italian position in the Mediterranean.

The committee was expected to meet next week, after which a formal proposal will be made. The committee is organized for participation in the civil service.

Purge of C.I.O. Affiliation Demanded of Canadian Labor Congress

GREEN WANTS CANADA SOLID FOR A.F. OF L.

American Chief Aims Peace Unity—Dominion Already in Line

HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 6.—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, demanded last night the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress "purge" itself of committee for industrial organization affiliates in the dominion.

He asked his demands in a speech to the Federation's 88th annual convention after W. G. Russell, federal delegate from the Canadian organization, addressed the convention.

REVIEWS CAMPAIGN
Green reviewed the Federation's campaign to purge its own state Federation of Labor of C.I.O. affiliates and said:

"We expect the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress to do the same thing. It must be placed upon a sound, enduring American Federation of Labor basis if it is to continue its affiliation with the A. F. of L."

"We want our friends in Canada to know just where the American Federation of Labor stands on the question of solidarity, unity and supremacy of the A. F. of L.," he added.

"We are going to have peace and harmony in the house of Labor. With cooperation, Green said, the C.I.O. affiliates in the congress included the Canadian union of the United Mine Workers, the United Auto Workers, and the Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union, CANADIAN PRESENT

Delegates Russell said the Trades and Labor Congress at its last convention in Niagara Falls, Ont., adopted a resolution against changing the status of the two warring labor factions within the congress within the congress.

Earlier, in an address to the convention, J. W. Wozniak, a spokesman for the British Trades Union Congress, appealed to United States delegates to "think and speak internationally" because the future of the British Empire is "irrevocably bound up with the destinies of Europe and the Far East."

MUCE INTERNATIONAL
Wozniak declared "the unity must be internationalism."

"It is impossible for the world to be left by itself," he said. "America cannot be separate detached. You are in our part of the world and your destinies are irrevocably bound up with the destinies of Europe and the Far East."

CZECH TROOPS STRIP FORTS ALL WEAPONS

Removal Being Done With Approval Of British Officer

CARLSBAD, Sudetenland, Oct. 6.—Czechoslovakian troops are taking them from all movable weapons and military equipment when they evacuate their fortifications in the Sudetenland.

This apparently is being done with the approval of Major Strong, a British officer who presided over the evacuation of the Czechoslovakian troops.

Neither Major Strong nor the German army, so far as can be learned, have offered any objections to the stripping of the forts.

NO ANTI-SEMITISM
The setting up of Nazi local government continued today without incident. There were no signs of increasing anti-Semitism as the German troops moved in.

A certain amount of anti-Semitism already had prevailed, while German soldiers in the Sudetenland were being welcomed by the German army.

There were only a few hundred in the German army, and nearly all have gone.

Man Dickers For Funeral And Then Shoots Himself

SOUTH PORCUPINE, Oct. 6.—The body of James Gray, a bullet wound in the head and a 22 calibre rifle nearby, was found in a field on the outskirts of South Porcupine, Tuesday, less than 24 hours after the 28-year-old mining engineer sought to arrange and pay for his own funeral.

Lloyd N. Hunkin, this mining engineer's brother, said he came into his office Monday and asked him to arrange for his funeral. Hunkin told Gray to see him again next Saturday. Yesterday Hunkin received a letter which said: "I'm sorry, I couldn't wait."

Government Spain Is Determined To Avoid Fate Of Czechoslovakia

It is possible, says by trying to remove the discussion from the spirit of collaboration and good will. I believe the program of that sort would be rejected by the people of this country, even if it involves discussion, men to men, with dictators.

Mr. Chamberlain rejected the party's suggestion of an immediate move to conference in draft last night. In his view it would be better to have no conference than a conference which would probably result in a "no" vote.

AT LATER DATE
Perhaps a conference could be called advantageously at some later date, the prime minister said, "but it is to use calling a conference at that time which the totalitarian states will be represented and which they will attend and until you know they will be adding you in the end."

"I have been charged with cowardice, weakness, presumption and stupidity," Mr. Chamberlain proclaimed. "I have been accused of cowardice, weakness, presumption and stupidity. I have been accused of cowardice, weakness, presumption and stupidity. I have been accused of cowardice, weakness, presumption and stupidity."

"Nobody who had heard me say what I had to go through, day after day, faced with the thought of the country to which I belonged, and I alone, who had to say that yes or no which would decide the fate of millions of men, their wives and families, could readily forget."

"For that reason I am not in a mood to try to say what I can do by way of repair. When I change to my age and fills my position, I think I tend to feel that criticism and even abuse is due to me, to him, it is his conscience that matters."

PEACE CONVINCED
Looking back on recent events, the prime minister said he felt convinced that his actions had been justified. "I claim no credit for my actions," he added. "It was only my duty to do my best for my country. It is my duty to do my best for my country. It is my duty to do my best for my country."

The prime minister, frequently interrupted by cheers from his supporters, declared war was a different thing from what it used to be, not only in degree but in kind. In the very first hour, it was different thing from what it used to be, not only in degree but in kind. In the very first hour, it was different thing from what it used to be, not only in degree but in kind.

VITAL CAUSE
"You cannot ask people to accept such a prospect unless you feel assured, and you make them feel that the cause for which they are going to fight is a vital cause, a cause that transcends all ordinary human values and that to which you can point, if some day you win a victory, and say that cause is there."

There was also the important consideration of the British Empire. "You may think we are the country that is directly affected in such cases," he continued, "but the Dominions have the right to be brought into consultation before we take a step which would have incalculable consequences for them."

Because the number of ambassadors was not known, it was impossible to determine the number of ambassadors who would be present. "The number of ambassadors was not known, it was impossible to determine the number of ambassadors who would be present. The number of ambassadors was not known, it was impossible to determine the number of ambassadors who would be present."

IS ABSTAINED
One analysis said that 18 government members were believed to have abstained from the agreement of confidence. This compared with twenty before the vote that 40 abstained.

Winston Churchill and some other Conservatives abstained from the vote, as did George Lansbury and a half a dozen Labour Party members as well as two Independent Labour members also abstained.

PEOPLES HATED
Mr. Chamberlain in his speech before the vote, declared he was justified in making the Munich settlement because of the "people's hatred of the motion of starting to kill one another again."

He hinted at a new war. British defence effort coupled with a "new spirit of revival."

Mr. Chamberlain said that when the British government was convinced that the Munich settlement was the only way to avoid a new war, it was the only way to avoid a new war, it was the only way to avoid a new war.

True the Prime Minister declared Czechoslovakia was saved from annihilation and given a new life and national existence in material and security comparable to that of Switzerland.

NO DISMANTLING
"Peace might yet be gained for your time," Mr. Chamberlain said, "but that need not trouble us. We are not dismantling what we can induce others to disarm." Prime Minister would weaken Britain's diplomacy, because to be successful in diplomacy you must be able to say "I thought I got it off."

The Prime Minister said there would be prompt further examination of civil and military defence to make good any deficiencies in the shortest possible time.

The government has proposed that the House of Commons should adjourn for 10 days as a result of the first will adjourn later today until November 1.

Because of the swiftly-changing European scene the government was pressed by Liberal and Labour members to give parliament a short recess. Prime Minister Chamberlain said the government had felt power to sum up matters in this way. It thought it necessary and would not hesitate to use that power if events became worse before Nov. 1.

SHARP EXCHANGE
When Chamberlain and the Prime Minister became involved in a sharp exchange concerning the adjournment of parliament, Mr. Churchill backed up the suggestion of Sir Archibald Sinclair, Liberal leader, that the house reconvene Oct. 18 and, if necessary, adjourn between then and Nov. 1, continuing it as derogatory to parliament it should be dismissed "in one of the most formidable periods of which we have lived."

Mr. Churchill added that some cabinet ministers would feel it a relief "when we have sent them home" on their business and we can get on with our work," and continued "We hear of more change in British cabinet procedure—that these matters are being dealt with by what is called the Big Four."

Mr. Chamberlain reminded the house that the Munich settlement could be annulled before parliament could be summoned before Nov. 1 if events warranted.

Mr. Churchill replied, "But only on the advice of the government and not of the opposition."

OUTBURST OF CHEERS
The Prime Minister referred to the unworship of the right honorable member for the City of London, Mr. Churchill, who was interrupted by a group of cheers from the opposition.

Mr. Churchill asked the Prime Minister to accept the adjournment proposal which I put to him should receive the widely appropriate consideration of "unworship."

PREMIER EXPLAINS
Mr. Chamberlain explained he had not intended to accept Churchill's suggestion that cabinet ministers be glad to see the House dismissed. "I am glad to see the House dismissed," he said, "but I am glad to see the House dismissed."

The Prime Minister added the attack did "not do justice to the Munich settlement and the possibility of cabinet ministers."

Harold Macmillan, a Conservative, joined in the attack. "I was afraid the House was being treated 'more and more in a kind of Reichstag (German Diet), just meeting to hear orations and speeches."

IMMEDIATE EXAMINATION
Several speakers questioned the constitutionality of the adjournment of parliament at a time when important decisions still remained for parliamentary consideration.

In particular, the government's proposal to make an immediate adjournment of £100,000,000 to Czechoslovakia required immediate examination and discussion by parliament, it was contended.

Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, said the decision had been taken in extraordinary circumstances.

QUESTION RAISED
The question of British steps to "occupy the personal property of Eduard Benes, who resigned as president of Czechoslovakia yesterday, was raised by Viscount Simon, a Conservative, who asked if anything was being done to protect him.

"Have not the government been seized by the fate of Dr. Von Ribbentrop, the greatest champion of Austria Mr. Adams asked."

When no reply was forthcoming from the government, Benes' shouts of "anxiety" came from the opposition benches. William G. Macdonald, Communist, shouted: "You may own your fate one of these days, to which the British members rallied and 'and yours'."

Major Harry Nathan, Labour, asked the government "if the attention of the German government to the minorities treaty governing the Sudeten German territory, especially in view of the large number of Germans who have fled from Germany to the Sudeten area, and if the German government would fulfil its obligations thereunder."

TREATY NOT BINDING
The minorities treaty, replied Mr. Chamberlain, "is not binding upon the German government. Neither can I accept the assumption that the provisions of the treaty would in any case apply to German nationals who may have taken residence in Czechoslovakia."

"It is to be understood," pursued Mr. Nathan, "that the prime minister's answer is that the British government propose to do nothing?"

NOT THE QUESTION
"That was not the question," replied Mr. Chamberlain.

Several members asked if the refugees committee would deal with the question of Jewish refugees from the Czechoslovak territories ceded to Germany.

"The house will realize," replied Richard Butler, under-secretary for foreign affairs, "there are 25 countries represented on the committee and I must leave it to the discretion of Lord Winterton 'chairman of the committee as to what action he takes and I am sure he will realize it is important to him."

Morgan Jones, Labour, asked whether the government has received any reports from the British minister at Prague as to a change of opinion in the Czechoslovakian street, British and French and a desire to seek closer understanding with Germany."

Mr. Butler replied in the negative. Mr. Jones, referring to the resignation of Dr. Benes, then asked: "Also for British government taking no notice of the obvious change."

Hungary Fits In

After the World War, Hungary was reduced to one-third of her pre-war size by the Allies. Predominantly agricultural, Hungary is just what Germany needs to feed her industrialized population.

The map above shows present-day Hungary and the distribution of the population. Hungary is shown in the center, with Poland to the north and east, and Czechoslovakia to the west.

In Czech policy which Dr. Benes himself referred to in his broadcast, the Munich settlement was a "great victory" for Hungary.

WATCHING SITUATION
"The British government are naturally watching the situation, with all the implications arising from it," the under-secretary replied. "But the prime minister said that the Munich settlement was a 'great victory' for Hungary."

He said he had received 200 letters since his flight to Berchtesgaden Sept. 15. He said they were from people who felt the Munich settlement was a "great victory" for Hungary.

NO CONFIRMATION
"I understand no negotiations are or have been in progress apart from the discussion which took place some months ago on the question of interpretation of the Munich settlement. I am informed there is no confirmation of the Munich settlement."

He said he had received 200 letters since his flight to Berchtesgaden Sept. 15. He said they were from people who felt the Munich settlement was a "great victory" for Hungary.

PROVOKED CHEERS
Mr. McGovern, who has figured in many face exchanges with government supporters, provoked the Conservative benches in the resumed debate on the confidence motion when he declared his wholehearted approval of what the Prime Minister had done.

"I do not subscribe to the system of the policy of government," he declared. "I do not subscribe to the system of the policy of government, I do not subscribe to the system of the policy of government."

RELEASE DIVISIONS
"By gaining his new frontier," Sir Derrick said, "he will be able to release divisions equal in number and amount to all the divisions of the army. We ourselves could possibly pass under conscription. The weapon of effective blockade has been taken from our hands."

Mr. Chamberlain, Conservative, opposed any move toward military conscription, but stressed the importance of the introduction of some form of national registration. Under such a plan citizens at large would have some idea of what would be expected of them in times of emergency.

UNCERTAIN POSITION
Winding up the debate for the opposition, Clement Attlee, Labour leader, charged the policy the government has been following had led the country from a position of safety and security to one of uncertainty. There was apprehension for the future, he said, not only in this country but throughout the world.

"You will never get a response from the country by initiating drastic methods," Mr. Attlee declared. "They are alarmed by everything for which the Empire stands."

He said Britain proposed to give in solution of other German grievances" he asked.

"You have the demand for colonies. It is that going to be met and dealt with, or are you going to wait until we are faced with an ultimatum? We believe you must reach agreement with regard to raw materials and markets if you want permanent peace. You will, therefore, have to deal with trade barriers."

FORCE HOLDS SWAY
"Above all, if the world is to have peace it must get back to the rule of law. The ultimate effect of the Munich settlement is to strengthen conviction in this country that force, not force alone, holds sway."

Mr. Chamberlain, closing debate, was cheered when he said he had reached an age where criticism, even abuse, matters little to a man who has seen consequences appear in his action.

"In looking back," he said, "I feel that I have done my duty."

FIGHTS UNTIL COUNTRY FREE FOREIGN MEN

Official Says People Will Not Permit Nation To Be Sacrificed

BARCELONA, Oct. 6.—Julio Alvarez Del Vayo, Spanish government foreign minister, declared today that government Spain was determined to avoid the fate of Czechoslovakia and to fight until the country is "free from foreign invasion."

In an address prepared for international broadcast Alvarez Del Vayo asserted:

"The terrible and monstrous experience of what has taken place in Europe within the last few days has increased the Spanish people's resolution not to permit Spain to be sacrificed to the policy of capitulation."

MINUTES EXISTENCE
This policy of capitulation, he said, "increases the existence of the nation, and the Barcelona newspaper, La Vanguardia, supporter of the premier, said yesterday that the Spanish people would not allow it to break up."

Government Spain, meanwhile, is sending out appeals for volunteers for all foreign fighters on its side. Travellers reaching the French frontier are being asked to join the Spanish cause.

PEACE WOULD DEVELOP
"An armistice on present military lines," Alvarez Del Vayo said, "would mean the end of the Spanish people's struggle for freedom and independence."

Spain into two parts, undoubtedly hostile to each other at first, but that eventually emerged and then these relations would be established between the two Spanish states leading to some better basis for permanent peace in the world."

Spain Disclosed
PARIS, Oct. 6.—A plan to partition Spain into two nations—once again—was disclosed today by a Spanish newspaper, La Vanguardia, which said the plan had been discussed with the Spanish government, which rejected it.

They asserted the plan, its origin obscure, would form part of international discussions aimed at ending the Spanish war as part of a general European settlement.

It was hinted "certain powers" were working for such a settlement.

guarantee from the provincial government, through provisions of the Federal Association Guarantee Act.

Application for membership in the association and for assistance in the purchase of cattle and financing of feeding operations are already being called for by the association. The provincial agriculture department is providing a supervisor for the association in accordance with its policy of assistance to the development of these associations throughout the province.

The Edmonton association is the fifth of its kind operating in Alberta at the present time under the auspices of the provincial agriculture department to encourage the formation of Alberta's livestock on Alberta farms.

These feeder associations are being supervised by representatives of the department and a very large amount to all the divisions of the department can be attributed to the fact that these associations throughout the province.

WILL KINDEN
While no further associations are being organized this year, it is the policy of the department, state of affairs, to extend them into other areas suitable for feeding in coming seasons, as the interest in permanent feeding develops in these areas.

Present at the meeting from the agriculture department were C. A. Lyndon, livestock supervisor, and Fred Seaton, supervisor of the Alberta Feeder's Association.

Tories Retain Seat in Ontario Legislature

TORONTO, Oct. 6.—William J. Stewart, C.B.E., four times mayor of Toronto, was elected to the Ontario legislature as Conservative member for Toronto-Parkdale, in a by-election Wednesday.

The election was necessitated by the death, July 2, of Fred McMillin, Liberal, and the lack of representation in the assembly unchanged.

Mr. Stewart, 49-year-old business executive, had a clear majority in the constituency of Toronto-Parkdale, as Conservative member for Toronto-Parkdale, in a by-election Wednesday.

BALL CONTEST THRILL KILLS ELDERLY MAN

CALGARY, Oct. 6.—Excitement of listening to the broadcast of the opening game of the world's baseball series is believed to have caused the death of an elderly man.

Leaving the house immediately after the broadcast to drive down town in his car, Stagg was found dead seated in his car. He was 65 years of age, and was found by his wife at 4:30 o'clock when he failed to show up for supper.

Coroner Dr. G. R. Johnson and city police are investigating.

Peace—Therefore Conscription?

A motion introduced in the British House of Commons by Lord Buckmaster, declaring that "in view of recent events this house is of the opinion that some measure of compulsory military service would be in the best interests of this country," has hardly been excited surprise. That is the proposition to which all the shouting has been leading up. The prospect of European peace has been so much improved—such is the curious argument advanced by parliamentary leaders and London papers—that Britain should proceed to strengthen its defences by every conceivable means. If the logic sounds curious, the facts are patent to anyone who has been reading the press despatches.

It is of course no immediate business of Canadians whether the Old Land do not go in for conscription. But, having contributed a half million men to help save Europe from destruction, and being expected to do something of the kind again should another war break out, Canadians have some right to ask themselves whether a course of military action that leads to a demand for conscription in Great Britain is what they thought they were fighting for twenty years ago.

Lord Maugham's Contribution

Lord Maugham went to the heart of the Czechoslovak question when he declared in the House of Lords, perhaps in a moment of absent-mindedness, that the little republic "ought never to have been created, and that is absolutely, literally true."

Lord Maugham is Lord Chancellor and a member of Mr. MacDonald's cabinet. Was he thus proclaiming the conception of things upon which the Government's policy towards the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia was based? Had this been determined, as a justifiable procedure, before the Premier went to Berchtesgaden, then did he go there to announce to Mr. Hitler the ways and means by which to bring about the partial destruction of a country which he and his colleagues believed should never have been created?

Confirmation of this is to be found in a white paper issued at Ottawa making public some of the "diplomatic" connections with the crisis. Lord Runciman made his report on Sept. 21st, advising among other things that the Sudeten area be ceded to Germany. But on Sept. 19th, the Governments of France and Britain had already notified President Benes that the interests of European peace and his country's safety would have to be handed over. Two days before Runciman reported, France and Britain were thus actively moving to secure the partition of the Czech state.

Lord Runciman—no inference is pretty clear—had given a report that was wanted to give support to the pre-conceived intention to bisect the republic which "ought never to have been created" in the view of Lord Maugham and his associates—and the French Government as well.

May Go Up, But Not Down

When Commissioner Hodgson took the Taxpayers' Protective Association they did not look for any reduction in the mill rate next year he was not giving them any news. Unwilling as the auditor is, the fact has been apparent to all who took the trouble to ask what the Fortin refinancing scheme was planned to do, and did do. It made no reduction in the city's debt, nor in the interest on the debt. The city must pay the whole amount it borrowed and the whole amount of the interest called for by the original contracts. All the agreement did was extend the period of payment, and thereby improve the bondholder's prospect of being able to collect.

It was clearly pointed out at the time that nothing less than a 54 mill rate would make it possible to meet the debt instalments and the running expenses of the city. If new schools were required, or any other capital improvement undertaken, the taxation would have to go up beyond the 54 mill level; hence the Commissioner's hint that if the school board proceeds with its building plans a higher, not a lower, rate is in prospect for next year.

These are not matters of opinion. They are matters of known fact. Taxes in Edmonton are high, of course. They are too high. It is extravagant, not prudent.

to own one's home in this city. There was only one way by which taxes could have been reduced, by securing a reduction in debt principal or interest. That was not done, and the tax rate stands as a penalty on property-ownership, a barrier to construction, and a deterrent to the renter's new-comer who thinks of becoming an owner.

Short of a tax-payor strike, and a point-bank refusal to go on paying interest ranging from 4 1/2 per cent up to 7 per cent, there is no outlook for tax reduction. On the contrary, either the rate will be increased or the city will have to go up if the city is to spend any money in permanent improvements.

Editorial Notes

Anthony Eden put the matter in a sentence when he said, "The democracies have got to show themselves as resolute in policy and in spirit as nations under any form of government." That is, if the democracies want to continue to live.

The council of the League of Nations has drawn up a report stating that the application of sanctions against an aggressor shall hereafter be at the discretion of the member-nations. The difference in the conduct of the member-nations will not be noticeable.

A tornado "lasting scarcely more than a minute" killed at least 25 persons, injured hundreds more, and wrecked property to the amount of many thousands of dollars at Charleston, S.C. Next to being thankful they don't live in Europe, Albertans should be glad they don't live in the tornado belt of this continent.

When the first alarm plane reached Lethbridge early Saturday morning from Winnipeg, 120 pounds of mail were transferred from it to the plane making the initial flight to Edmonton. That indicates the volume of business the service is likely to handle to and from this point. Since the mail left Winnipeg at 10:30 the previous evening, reaching here at 5:45 Saturday morning, it also indicates the improved facilities for the quick transaction of business between distant points.

Fifty Years Ago

From the Files of The Edmonton Bulletin

There is a civil air famine in town. R. McEwan and D. McDonald arrived from the Landing.

Mr. H. M. Bannerman arrived by stage from Calgary. He has been transferred to Edmonton.

W. Fielders and W. Edmiston arrived from Calgary with 40 head of cattle and a Galloway bull. It will mean a more terrible war in the very near future.

Our contact with German people, some of whom have recently returned from Germany, convinces us that the great majority of them are opposed to war.

The German-Canadian People's Society at Vancouver, during the days when they threatened, placed itself on record in letters to the press as being "firmly opposed to making any attempt to interfere with Hitler's demand for the dismemberment of the democratic republic of Czechoslovakia." It added "If STOOD LOULU. Hitler fascism is not stopped now, it will mean a more terrible war in the very near future."

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

The creator who addresses a question to his audience doesn't always get back the answer he expects. The new method of addressing audiences by radio over the air has the advantage that the audience must talk, or ask questions. In Hitler's Nuremberg speech, agitating the grievances of the Sudeten Germans, he laid great stress on the united support that he and his brother dictator in Italy enjoyed. "Where," he asked, could the democratic world have anything to approach the situation in the Reich and in Italy, whose governments enjoy the support of 99 per cent of the people?"

He asked that question of an Edmonton audience in Memorial Hall he'd have got a shudder. Soviet Russia, with a population greater than that of Germany and Italy combined, voted a virtual 100 per cent support of its government. What wasn't the answer he wanted. Neither question or answer proved the point.

Old Country Letter

By E. A. NORCROSS

LONDON, Eng.—(By Mail)—The rise of Mr. G. G. McGeer, K.C., M.P., former mayor of Vancouver, from boiler-maker to barrister is paralleled in this country by that of Mr. Alfred St. John, late member for Bonaville.

When Alfred St. John was a little boy he fell on the fire at home and so disfigured his face that he was rejected at the Bar while in the House of Commons and qualified as a barrister. He did it by studying in-ferna and continues and taking advantage of the House of Commons library. He held office under the last Labor government.

His death at the age of 53 creates a parliamentary vacancy at Bonaville which he won from the Conservatives in 1935.

There are now four by-elections in prospect, the others being those at Wallall, Oxford City and Dartford (Kent).

So far there have been fifty-one by-elections during the term of the present parliament. If, as seems probable, there is no general election for more than another year the record of 61, set up by the 1924-9 parliament, will probably be broken.

Another five million dollars is to be spent on an aircraft factory. Announcement is made by the Air Ministry that the new factory, which is to be built at Manchester, will employ about 3,000 men. This number will be doubled when, twelve or fourteen months hence, the new plant begins work.

At the present time the favored company will be flying about 3,000 men. This number will be doubled when, twelve or fourteen months hence, the new plant begins work.

It seems rather strange to read of the boundary dispute between Canada and New Brunswick, yet it is a fact that the two provinces have been at loggerheads for some time. The dispute is over a small strip of land near the town of Grand Falls, N.B. The Canadian government claims the land, but the New Brunswick government insists that it belongs to them.

DO THIS: Put some Vicks VapoRub in each nostril and sniff well. You'll feel better right away. Next mix a little of VapoRub in a bowl of boiling water. Breathe in the steam. In the afternoon, mediate for several minutes. This soothes the throat and further clears the air passages. VapoRub is a liniment, and, like all liniments, it is rubbed into the skin. It is not a medicine, and it does not cure. It only relieves the symptoms. Vicks VapoRub is a liniment, and it is rubbed into the skin. It is not a medicine, and it does not cure. # French Government Confronted With Tremendous Financial Problem

DALADIER UP AGAINST TASK REORGANIZING

Nation's Deficit $40,500,000, and Increasing—May Revaluate Gold

PARIS, Oct.—Premier Edouard Daladier received decree powers from parliament Wednesday after he had voiced hope that "democratic methods" would suffice for the work of "building" France. The premier must cope with a severely dried treasury.

The vote came after Daladier told the senate:

"The work of rebuilding must be accomplished by democratic methods. I hope it will be so. Will that hope be realized? The country must answer me."

"In any case I will do my duty without caring about popularity or unpopularity, and I consent on the senate to give me the means of pursuing my tasks with the sole concern of the interests of France."

HAS FRIED HAND
This was interpreted in parliamentary circles as a warning to the French people that they must see their democratic privileges for the political good of the nation or risk a dictatorship.

Premier Daladier got his powers without any indication from him or his ministers in either house of parliament regarding what he intended to do with them. This was either because they wished secrecy or as bankers suggested, they had not yet decided what to do.

In the course of his appearance before the chamber and senate finance committees, the premier only agreed to a number of restrictions in the use of his decree powers. His speech before the senate was interpreted as meaning he might be forced to seek release from his prime minister's "yellow" of France's debt.

DALADIER'S PROMISES
He promised the finance committees:

No exchange control; no devaluation; no intervention in the public debt; no forced conversion of government bonds; no change in the

Funds Low

When Norma Sitarski appeared in court to ask permission to pay $750,234.13 from the funds of the estate of her late husband, Irving Thibault, it was revealed the original estate of $3,000,000 had been shelled $3,000,000 by inheritance taxes.

Miss Sitarski was requesting the money to pay a compromise tax to the federal government.

principle of the 40-year work and no meddling with the budget.

These restrictions, deputies and bankers said, left Daladier only three possibilities: To revalue the gold of the Bank of France for a profit of from $3,000,000,000 to $10,000,000,000; to put a tax on capital, or to float a forced loan.

And Gardey, reporter for the Senate's finance committee, said: "The financial problem is no longer a simple technical problem; expressing the belief Daladier's powers must extend to nearly every phase of national life."

DEFICIT INCREASING
Gardey told the Senate that at the end of September the treasury deficit was more than 15,000,000,000 francs (about $40,500,000), adding, in a gloomy picture of the national finances, that the deficit was growing daily.

Order said the government had borrowed 15,000,000,000 francs ($35,230,000) from the Bank of France in September alone. Only 1,500,000,000 francs ($35,420,000) re-

CANADIANS BEGIN ANNUAL HUNT FOR MAPLE LEAVES

MONTREAL, Oct. 4.—With maple leaves at present in the height of their autumnal glory in many sections of Canada, interest is now being shown in the search for the leaf which is being held out to the tourist as the Canadian Travel Bureau, the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Canadian National Railways.

Montreal families have been showing greater interest than usual in the maple forest of the province, being attracted there by the pleasure of a day in the open, the chance of winning a cash prize as high as $100, and the special excursions and cheap return rail tickets offered by both railways.

Reports reaching the offices of the railways indicate that gathered maple leaves has become a popular hobby even now, not only among children, but among adults as well.

The prizes totaling $215 are expected to be distributed fairly evenly across the country. While British Columbia has always won the $20 and $10 prizes for the largest leaves, the $100 prize for the most beautiful leaf has gone to New Brunswick twice, to Quebec twice and to Ontario last year.

maintained to be borrowed. The government under the present law is authorized to borrow 20,000,000,000 francs ($40,000,000) from the bank.

Parliamentarians agreed Daladier could use all the strength of his March-onne strategy to solve the financial problem. Since 1928 French governments have been promising abolition, but the problem is more than a simple technical one.

MAY REVALUE STOCK
It is generally agreed that these devaluations in the past two years have failed to solve the problem, only providing temporary government with temporary breathing spells.

Revaluation of the bank's gold stock is shown to be under consideration by the government, but how it would be done is a secret.

The Committee on Finance, which three weeks ago Socialist Premier Blum for asking for powers similar to those granted Daladier, cheered the premier throughout his speech.

Only Communist and Socialist senators remained silent.

Peace And Freedom New Names Given To Memorial Symbols By Premier King

OTTAWA, Oct. 4.—The symbolic bronze figures commemorating Canada's national war memorial in Ottawa and put in position by Prime Minister Mackenzie King at an informal ceremony last Friday, have had their names changed.

"Peace and Liberty" was the new name given to the figure of a woman, originally placed upon the memorial figures when they were placed upon the 75-foot granite arch.

March brothers, sculptors of the monument, were asked to change the name, the designation "peace and liberty" would be a better one.

Mackenzie King said, "The United States had its 'Statue of Liberty' and there might be some confusion. The group is in heroic the command of a formal figure, one armed and bearing a torch."

Another group, one armed and bearing a torch, was the other bearing a torch.
